National Archives Sources for Research

The National Archives and Records Administration has microfilmed over 2,000 series of federal records that contain a wealth of valuable information for scholars and other researchers. In addition to the revised comprehensive catalog, catalogs for federal population censuses covering the years 1790-1910 are available. The National Archives has also published seven subject catalogs that list publications by topic and provide roll-by-roll lists of contents.

Foreword

The National Archives and Records Administration is responsible for administering and making available for research the permanently valuable noncurrent records of the federal government. These archival holdings, now amounting to more than 1.5 million cubic feet, date from the first days of the Continental Congress in 1774 and preserve the basic records of the legislative, judicial, and executive branches of government from that time to the present. The National Archives also administers the Presidential libraries.

These research resources document significant events in our nation's history, but most of them are preserved for their continuing practical use in ordinary processes of government. All nonrestricted records are available for the use of scholars, students, genealogists, and others.

Introduction

The National Archives Microfilm Publications Program

Microfilm has been and continues to be an important way of distributing and preserving records. Since 1941 the National Archives has microfilmed federal records of high research interest to make the records available for researchers while preserving the originals from deterioration and damage from handling. Copies of these microfilmed records are sold to the public, making these federal records accessible to libraries, research centers, and individuals.

The National Archives microfilm publications program provides ready access to records for research in a wide variety of fields, including history, economics, political science, law, and genealogy. This program emphasizes microfilming groups of records relating to the same general subject or to a specific geographic area. For example, many of the pension and compiled military service records and accompanying indexes for 19th-century volunteer soldiers are on microfilm. Microfilmed State Department records, such as consular despatches and notes, provide almost complete coverage of relations between the United States and other countries during the 19th and early 20th centuries.

This catalog, which lists more than 2,000 microfilm publications available from the National Archives, supersedes National Archives Microfilm Resources for Research: A Comprehensive Catalog (1986). The organization of this catalog is based on the 1974 edition of the Guide to the National Archives of the United States. General Records of the U.S. Government are followed by records of the legislative, judicial, and executive branches. Within the executive branch, publications of Presidential records are first, followed by Cabinet-level departments, which are listed in the order of their creation. Independent agencies of the executive branch are listed next, in alphabetical order. Records of other governments and miscellaneous records are listed last.

The microfilm publication information is arranged by numbered record group, a system of arrangement that groups records according to the agency that created them, generally at the bureau level. Within each record group in this catalog, the microfilm publications are arranged to make them easy to use:

1. Similar records for various date spans, such as census records, are in chronological order:

First Census of the United States,
1790.
M637. 12 rolls.

Second Census of the United States, 1800.
M32. 52 rolls.

Third Census of the United States,
1810.
M252. 71 rolls.

2. Related records concerning foreign countries, such as despatches from U.S. ministers, are arranged alphabetically by country or city:

Despatches From U.S. Ministers to
Cuba, 1902–1906.
T158. 18 rolls.

Despatches From U.S. Ministers to the Dominican Republic, 1883–
1906.
M93. 15 rolls.

Despatches From U.S. Ministers to
Ecuador, 1848–1906.
T50. 19 rolls.

3. Indexes and other users' tools generally precede the records they accompany. For example, the indexes to compiled service records of volunteer Union soldiers precede the compiled service records.

If no particular arrangement seems logical, the publications are listed in their own numerical order, with the M-publication numbers preceding the A- and T-publication numbers.

Each entry gives the full title of the publication, including the inclusive dates; the M-, A-, or T-publication number; the number of rolls; and whether there is an accompanying descriptive pamphlet ("DP" signifying that a descriptive pamphlet exists). The film is on 35mm rolls unless the entry specifies 16mm or microfiche. Entries marked with a ► have been published since 1986. A typical entry appears as follows:

► Enrolled Acts and Resolutions of Congress, 1893–1956.
M1323. 139 rolls.

The catalog does not include administrative histories, roll-by-roll lists, or descriptions of what is on the microfilm. Roll lists are available in DPs, in select catalogs, and from reference services at the Washington, DC, National Archives facilities and regional archives across the country.

This catalog includes a keyword index; two lists of record group numbers, one list arranged alphabetically and the other arranged numerically; and a numerical list of microfilm publication numbers. All three lists show the catalog page on which the record group begins or the microfilm publication appears.

Types of Microfilm Publications

The National Archives reproduces records in two forms: microfilm rolls and microfiche. Rolls of film are wound on plastic reels, and each frame reproduces one or two single pages or items. A microfiche is a sheet of film containing multiple microimages in a grid pattern, and each microimage is a copy of one or two pages or items.

National Archives microfilm publications are divided into three types: M, A, and T publications. Most M publications reproduce an entire series of records. At the beginning of the first roll (sometimes on every roll) and on the first fiche, an introduction is reproduced that contains explanatory material to help researchers use the records. Each introduction consists of a general and brief history of the originating agency, a description of the records' content, and an explanation of the arrangement of the records. Some introductions also include special aids, such as indexes and appendixes. A table of contents of the microfilm publication follows the introduction. Many introductions and tables of contents are printed as accompanying descriptive pamphlets (DPs). DPs that are available (as shown in this catalog) may be requested by writing to the Publications Services Staff (NEPS), National Archives and Records Administration, Washington, DC 20408.

A and T publications are numbered in the same sequence and, unlike M publications, do not always reproduce a complete series of records. They may contain only segments, by date or subject, of a larger series. In addition, A and T publications may be copies of microfilm produced by other federal agencies and accessioned by the National Archives. A and T publications are reproduced and sold exactly as they were filmed; they contain no introductions and have no accompanying descriptive pamphlets.

Index

The index lists proper names, place names, and key words from the publication titles in alphabetical order. These are followed by the M, A, or T numbers and page/column numbers (e.g. "17.3" means page 17, column 3).

Consular posts are listed only under appropriate country and state names. Entries for censuses under state names refer only to the Soundex publications, not to the actual census schedules.

1920 Census Microfilm

March 2, 1992 has been designated as the official release date for the 1920 census. Public Law 95-416 requires that the records for each decennial census remain closed to the public for a period of seventy-two years after the enumeration date.

Roll Counts/Format

The 1920 census — which exists only on microfilm — consists of

- 2,076 rolls of population census schedules (35mm)
- 8,590 rolls of the Soundex index (16mm)

Every state in the 1920 census was indexed, which will simplify access for genealogists and family historians.

Data Elements Included

Address; name; relationship to family head; sex; race; age; marital status; if foreign born, year of immigration to the U.S., whether naturalized, and year of naturalization; school attendance; literacy; birthplace of person and parents; mother tongue of foreign born; ability to speak English; occupation, industry, and class of worker; home owned or rented; if owned, whether mortgaged; for non-farm mortgaged, market value, original amount of mortgage, balance due, interest rate.

How to Order

The publication date of the microfilm catalog for the 1920 census is Spring 1991. For further information concerning purchase of 1920 census materials, please write: Marketing and Fulfillment Branch (NEPS), National Archives, Washington, DC 20408.
